

NC Watershed Information

Lake Fisher Reservoir is a North Carolina watershed. The water here is pumped to a filter plant in Concord where it is treated.

It is then pumped to homes throughout the City of Concord for use by citizens.

Because this lake is classified as a watershed, there are rules and regulations along with state laws that govern activities here, which are in place to protect the integrity of the water supply as well as make visits here by patrons more pleasant.

Lake Fisher is 3 miles in length and consists of 534 acres.
